County School Notes.

Owing to the prevailing conditions with regard to the epidemic of Spanish influenza, the Maryville teachers' meeting has been indefinitely postponed. The notification to that effect came too late to be inserted in last week's paper.

The superintendent spent almost a half day in the Monticello school October 16. Having some trouble with the engine of her car when about half way from the main road to the school house, she left the car and walked the remainder of the distance. When she was ready to take her departure after noon the whole school accompanied her and backed the car by pushing until reaching a place where the road was wide enough to permit of turning. If those boys and girls will only "boost" their studies as they "boosted" their superintendent's car, they ought certainly to make a success of their school work.

The copies of the new state course of study have been received at this office. As soon as the schools resume work the superintendent will take these copies to the various schools as she makes her visits. Meantime any teacher who wishes a copy may secure it by coming to the office for it.

The quarterly questions for the first quarter of school work were mailed to the teachers on Monday. The only place where there is a change in the work indicated by the questions is in A Class history and A and B Class reading. On this account the teachers have been instructed to make their own questions in these subjects.

The work in the A and B Classes in reading as outlined by the new state course of study for this year is: A Class: Besides reader work, first quarter, Vision of Sir Launfal and Rip Van Winkle; second quarter, Dickens' Christmas Carol; third quarter, Legend of Sleepy Hollow and Knave of Hearts; fourth quarter Hawthorne's The Great Stone Face, and Bryant's Thanatopsis and other poems, or Missouri Hall of Fame; Lives of Eminent Missourians.

B Class: Besides reader work, first quarter, Stories from the Old Testament or Indian Legends; second quarter, A Dog of Flanders or Harding's Story of Europe; third quarter, King Arthur and His Knights, or Franklin's Autobiography; fourth quarter, Longfellow's Hiawatha, and Baldwin's Four Great Americans.

A Class History for first quarter: The Civil War; the Reconstruction; second quarter, period from 1870-1898; the period from 1898 to the present; third quarter, Civics, the Federal Constitution, Community Civics; fourth quarter, History and Government of Missouri. It will be seen from this that a radical change has been made in the new course of study in the matter of U. S. history. The work for the 7th grade has been enlarged and will include the entire history up to the Civil War. In the old course of study which formed the basis of our study last year took us only to the beginning of our republic—George Washington's administration. So there is a great deal of work to be filled in before we are ready to take up the work as mapped out for the first quarter's work of this year's A Class in the new course of study. This will be quite difficult to do, however, I am depending upon the initiative of each teacher that this will all be worked out with good results.

I should like to have the American creed written and posted in every school in the county, and as part of the school work, have the children read it in concert every day. Here it is: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states, a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon the principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity, for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes."

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

ALBERTA GREEN-MURPHY,
County Superintendent of Public Instruction.

A Coming Sale.

If you will look elsewhere in this issue, you will learn something that will interest you, especially if you are a farmer or stock raiser. O. W. Long, of Skidmore, will, on Saturday, November 9, sell at public sale 50 head of Big Type Poland China hogs—8 head Duroc spring boars and a yearling Shorthorn bull. The stuff is strictly of the best, and if you are in need of this kind, attend the sale—Saturday, November 9, 1918.

Elmer E. Price Writes.
Elmer Price, a former Holt county boy, now in the department of the interior at Washington, writes an article in The Sentinel that he greatly enjoys the coming of The Sentinel, which keeps him in close touch with the affairs of his old home county, and also of the boys who have been called to the colors. While he has thought himself quite young, Uncle Sam has turned him down because he was too old. He also speaks of the influenza epidemic at the national capital, which is prevailing to an alarming degree; that he was now convalescing from an attack.

THE WESTERN FRONT AT HOME

Earn and give. For a year the young people of America have been coached in thrift. Instead of the old problem in the arithmetic book, "If Mary's mother gave her three apples, Jane gave her two, and she ate one, how many would she have?" the third grade girl is now sent to the blackboard to solve, "How many Thrift stamps at 25 cents apiece will Mary own at the end of 12 months if she saves 10 cents a week?"

The girl in the grade above her is learning in her arithmetic lesson how many Thrift stamps it takes to buy the yarn for 500 helmets for the soldiers in France. Still further on the eighth grader is told to figure in terms of War Savings stamps how much it costs to supply a regiment of Uncle Sam's men with shelter tents.

And now the Earn and Give club of the younger girls of the Young Women's Christian association is organized to turn these Thrift lessons into giving. The children of America have been turning in pennies and nickels and posting a green stamp on their Thrift card. The Earn and Give club can now use some of those cards and War Savings stamps in their campaign among the younger people for the united war fund.

This fall when the war council of the Y. W. C. A. made plans for the 1918 war drive, it included in its program the rule that no young girls under eighteen can do any soliciting, on the streets or otherwise. They can give, but they can only give by earning. Consequently in order to coordinate the efforts of the girls in all the districts over the country, the Earn and Give club is enrolling members and has given out an estimate of $5 apiece to be earned for the war fund campaign by the American girls who still count their age in "teens." Five dollars apiece from the younger girls of the country will mean that the nation as a whole will fill its charitable organizations' war chest.

Some high school girl in New York city is going to earn her $5 by shining her own shoes instead of stopping at the Greek stand on her way to school and by making her own sandwiches for her noon lunch. Out in Iowa the girl who has been spending 15 cents plus war tax for a movie three nights a week is going to draw a line through the movie habit except when there is an especially good bill. More than one girl plans to clean all her own gloves this winter and to salvage all the paper and collections of junk about the house which should be sold to the junk man to be worked over into some productive industry. The girls in their teens are going to earn instead of ask others for the money. They are to sacrifice and give in their own names and older women will make the public requests for money elsewhere.

Many of the girls who are writing to join the Earn and Give club are already patriotic leaguers, and they have learned several practical lessons in the thrift that will make them effective members of the new club by their conservation of fruits and vegetables. They have canned and pickled. Now when the end of summer brings the beginning of school they will change their thrift into winter thrift and begin saving their $5 for the Y. W. C. A. war fund.

"Wherever You Are Is the Western Front" is the slogan which the Earn and Give club has adopted. Anna, one wily thirteen-year-old daughter of New York's last side, who was one of the first and youngest members to join the campaign at a New York settlement house, had to have it explained to her that instead of western front meaning fight and light meaning fists, the western front means work and work means save in order to give.

The girl who joins the Earn and Give club will discover that in conjunction with her working and saving in order that her club will furnish its quota of the money that is going to help the girls like herself in France and Belgium, she will also find numerous ways in the community to help the war that she had never dreamed of. She will see that all the fruit pits and stones that can be saved from her own dining table and from those of her neighbors, are dropped into the little red barrel at the corner, in order that the carbon which the seeds contain can be used in making charcoal for the American soldiers' gas masks. She will save all the tin foil that she sees for the Red Cross. She will help collect clothing for the French and Belgian orphans and perhaps send them some of her own.

School girls in India, children from squalid, dingy homes, with absolutely no spending money, gave last year to Belgian and Armenian relief when they themselves were not getting enough to eat. They gave up their meat once a week for the Belgians, though they only had it twice a week themselves, and for the Armenians they set aside the handful of fresh grain that otherwise each girl would have ground in her own little stone mill. Both contributions, from all the girls in one missionary's school, amounted only to $5 a month. "But it was a tremendous sacrifice," their teacher writes, "although a joyous one. It actually meant less bread each day, and once a week a meal of dry bread and water. This was done by 80 girls from the meanest homes in the world—children between the ages of five and fifteen."

Four hundred thousand girls in 47 states have become Patriotic Leaguers since America declared war. If as many school girls and working girls from all classes pledge to earn and give, the united war fund campaigners will have $2,000,000 of their $170,500,000.

HEINZ'S GREAT COLLECTION

Ivory Carvings Owned by Pittsburgher Are Declared to Be Almost Priceless.

During many years H. J. Heinz of Pittsburgh has gathered together one of the finest collections of ivory carvings in America. There are probably a dozen notable collections of this sort in the country, and among them the Heinz group of 1200 pieces holds distinguished rank, says a writer in Scribner's.

As a rich and fascinating field for a discriminating collector, ivory carvings are perhaps without a peer. Executed in a material that has always been costly, too rare, as a rule, to be subjected to poor or mediocre workmanship, they may well be considered as typical of the artistic development of the time in which they were produced. They represent the art, moreover, not of one people, of one period, but, it is scarcely an exaggeration to say, of all peoples and all periods.

From prehistoric ages down through the civilizations of Egypt and Assyria and of classic Greece and Rome have come priceless examples of sculptured ivories. The dark ages of Europe, so meager in artistic treasures, have bequeathed us an unbroken chain of ivory carvings. Much of the most interesting of such work must be accredited to the centuries of the Gothic revival, the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth. The Renaissance and the centuries succeeding have yielded a wealth of carved ivories of great richness and beauty. From India, China and Japan come ivories of deep historic interest and especially in the work of Japan, of genuine artistic achievement.

Periods of exceptional turbulence, such as the fall of Constantinople, the reformation in England and the French revolution, have caused the destruction of incomparable treasures. That so much has survived seems cause for wonder. The explanation lies in the very nature of the carvings.
